

Indiana's privacy law has greatly reduced the stress in my family of five. We used to get at least three calls per day trying to sign us up for something. It got to the point that our anger would spill over to each other. Indiana's law has worked for my family and should not be overridden.